With this technology, energy consumption is reduced by 25% vs. direct expansion systems, as well as being faster and more efficient both energetically and in comfort. It is an environmentally friendly system since the fluid that spreads through the building is water, which does not produce a greenhouse effect.

- The entire tower has reflective laminated glass systems on its facades which reduce the entry of radiant solar energy and noise. In addition to the significant reduction of harmful ultraviolet radiation or UV rays that are responsible for the deterioration of furniture and carpets, among others.
